the hundreds of bishops, stake presidents and visitors to Brigham Young University, its faculty and administration today extend welcome administration.

The "new look" will probably interest new as well as visitors already acquainted with campus. Since last year at conference time for BYU's vast construction program have I from the drawing board stage to brick and realities.

ANS FOR dedication of the new Industrial Bldg., have been announced. The building is named after pioneer BYU industrial education professor William F. Nichols. The building is on the east side of the campus near the plant. It cost over $600,000 and contains most modern industrial machines and equipment.

BYU athletes can now get the "jump" on spring sports by working out in the extension recently completed on the Smith Fieldhouse. The 166-foot extension provides area for indoor football, baseball and track practice. A full scale indoor track meet was recently held on the extended fieldhouse track.

DATE FOR COMPLETION in September is the new Business building, north of the Smith Family Living Center. Also under construction is the new Administration and General Services Building, which will cost some $2,250,000, and will centralize all the general services departments, now located in various buildings on the campus.

Reinforced steel girders reaching skyward in the area east of the Smith Family Living Center mark the progress of a new million-dollar BYU library. The five story structure will cost $4 million. Each floor will contain 40,000 square feet.

CONSTRUCTION of these buildings is part of the vast program of expansion pointed at the BYU centennial celebration in 1975.

Building construction is only part of BYU's expanding program. During the past year expansion of academic departments and programs has gone forward rapidly. Recently announced was the creation of a new department of statistics in the College of Business.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS include BYU debate wins in the Harvard and Air Force National Invitational tournaments and a berth in the West Point tourney finals. These are the nation's highest debate honors.

A band of BYU drama students directed by Dr. Harold L. Hansen, spent seven weeks touring the Far East entertaining U. S. servicemen. The group was one of six in the nation chosen by the U. S. State Department to make such tours.

Elections Elicit Eloquent Exhortations

There's no seeing around it—somebody's election campaigning time is here, complete with signs, banners, posters, displays, pictures, paintings and cartoons.

Campaigning began Monday evening and will continue Tuesday. Primary elections will be Wednesday and Thursday. No candidates are to use loud speakers to campaign on campus unless an activity is cleared through Elections Committee.

NOMINATED FOR vice president of culture are David Jacobs, Joe Justesen, Norm Nielsen and Dixie Randall.

Jacobs is a junior speech major from Provo. He is a member of the Honor Council and Madrigal Singers. Jacobs is also a junior speech major, from Lancaster, Calif., and is now chairman of the assembly committee.

A junior business major, Nielsen is from Oregon. Miss Nielsen is a junior speech and drama major from Tempe, Ariz. She is ASBYU executive secretary and a stake drama director in the MIA.

RUNNING FOR vice president of social activities is Blain Quartermann. He is a junior speech major from Lodi, Calif. On the ballot for vice president of student relations will be law major from Kirtland, N. M. Dean Champion, Keith Terry Mex. and Melvin (Pete) Marshall.

A junior psychology major from Alhambra, Calif., Jacobs is a member of the Brigham Young Bureau. Keith Terry is a historian major from Delta and is in charge of student foreign relations in the Senate. Marshall is a senior agricultural economics major from Logandale, Nev.

IN THE RACE for vice president of finance are Farrell Linnemann, a junior political science major from Lehi; and Lines an assistant to present vice president Max Pinegar, is a pre-major from Kirtland, N. M. Dean Champion, Keith Terry Mex. and Melvin (Pete) Marshall. In class elections for seniors at the Smith Fieldhouse, Al Call are running for president; Verlene Speckman for vice president; Dorothy Crofts, secretary; and Jim Easton, Roger Wright, Liane Harding, John Lauritz and Olan Durrant, senators.

HOPEFULS FOR junior class offices are Bill Bonner, John Hawks and Ron White for president; Jim Lauritz and Carolyn Avery, vice president; Suzanne Rich and LaVon Stevens, secretary; and Jerry Jensen, Bonnie Black, Diana Markham, John Hause, Sam Sorenson and Becki Fillmore, senators.

Graduate candidates are Marilyn Rich and Dale Laub, senators, and Al Rencher for graduate president.

Reed E. Callister . . . gives speech at today's devotional.

Californian, Not Y Chief, Talks Today

Bishop Reed E. Callister, bishop of the Glendale, Calif., Ward, will be the featured speaker at the Bishops' and Stake Presidents' Day devotional at the Smith Fieldhouse today.

It was previously announced through a misunderstanding that President Ernest L. Wilkinson would be the featured speaker. He will instead be Bishop Callister, however.

BISHOP CALLISTER has more members in his Glendale Ward attending Brigham Young University than any other ward outside of Utah.

The Glendale students will be seated together for the devotional, which will be held at 10 a.m.

GUESTS will be greeted by a reception line consisting of the Administrative Council, student body, students who have received national recognition and foreign students in their native dress.

The BYU Dean's Council will usher the guests to their seats on the main floor of the Fieldhouse.

"ARISE, Oh Glorious Zion," by George Careless and "Hallelujah, I Heard Your Voice of Joy" by Beethoven will be sung by the combined BYU Choir preceding the introduction of the speaker by President Wilkinson.

Following the devotional hour, bishops and stake presidents will meet with students from their areas. Three hundred rooms have been set aside for the reunion.

GUESTS will be served lunch in the Smith Banquet Hall and Ballroom from noon until 1:30 p.m. Tours of the campus will begin following lunch.

At 2:30 p.m. buses will return the bishops and stake presidents to Salt Lake City.

President Lee's Message

Dear Brethren:

Once again it becomes our great privilege to welcome you to our campus. You will notice the many new buildings which are being erected. We are proud of the growth that our university is realizing in its physical facilities, and prouder still of the great progress which is being made by the individual students in the areas of spiritual development and mental discipline.

We realize that you and the faithful members of your wards and stakes make all of these possible, and we express our appreciation to you for the significant part which you play in helping to fulfill the destiny of BYU.

You will find that in spite of our growth the traditional friendliness which has manifest itself in the "Spirit of the 'Y'" is still here. We hope that your visit with us will be a pleasant one.

Sincerely yours,
REX E. LEE
ASBYU President

A Heartfelt Thanks

To students and many faculty of Brigham Young University, the annual visit by state presidents and bishops to the campus is a much anticipated event.

There is something about seeing "the folks from home" that means a great deal more than simply a short chat or a handshake. For more students, BYU has become a second home. Being able to welcome esteemed friends and loved ones to this home is a pleasure for students. Showing the bishop or some stake officer the expanding campus, students can be excused for showing of pride.

Certainly the pride which we feel in this institution and its expanding physical and academic facilities should be tempered with a profound sense of gratitude. Realizing that it is through the faithfulness of the members of the church whose tithe make the operation of BYU possible, students should be grateful and determined to make sure that their contribution to the institution is equally devoted.

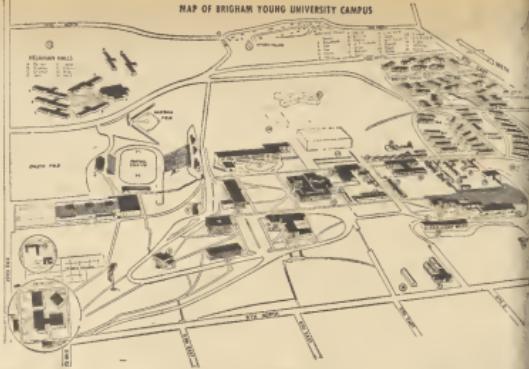

In 1875 Brigham Young called upon Karl G. Maeser to take charge of the church academy in Provo. When Brother Maeser asked for instructions from President Young, expecting a detailed outline of his duties, received the following simple charge: "Brother Maeser I want you to remember that you should not teach even the alphabet nor the multiplication tables without the spirit of the Lord."

Combining spiritual and intellectual pursuits has always been easy. Many times the "learning of the world" seems to be in conflict with the teachings of the gospel. But since the gospel accepts all truth, the conflicts are minimized. Skilled teachers, versed in the gospel as well as in the various fields of academic endeavor, have helped shape the destiny of thousands of successful BYU students.

Long before students arrive on the campus of BYU however, the probability of their success or failure has already been largely determined. The ability of a college professor to influence a student for good is dependent upon the student's prior experience.

It is to the bishops, the stake presidents, the priests and missionaries, as well as parents to whom we must look for all important understanding of the youth. The inculcation of sound principles of honesty, faith, morality fundamental to a happy life, must be undertaken in the individual's formative years.

In welcoming the visitors from stakes and wards over the church in this campus, we wish them to know that we are aware of, and deeply grateful for, the invaluable contribution they have made in our lives.

CAMPUS MAP—In the above map, the buildings may be identified by the circled number which appears near the building. Following are the numbers of buildings in which visitors and students will meet: Smith Family Living Center, No. (9) or map; Social Hall (Knight Mangum No. 32; Brimhall, No. (7); Eyring Science Center, No. (10); McKay Bldg., No. (8); Joseph Smith Bldg., No. (11); Fieldhouse No. (1); Speech Center, No. (19); Industrial Education Building, No. (63)

Where Do You Go? — Check the List

Following the assembly in the Smith Fieldhouse at 10 a.m. Tuesday, students and stake and ward leaders will have an opportunity to meet together again.

Annual Y Day Bike Plans Set, Racers Ready

The BYU Spring Bike Race has been incorporated into Y Day activities this year. This has been done in order to cooperate with the AMS' annual Y Day—to combine two AMS activities into one event.

This year the Bike Race will have several new features, including a special high speed race for bikes with eight gears and up. This race will be five miles long and will be run last.

ANOTHER race will be run first. This is the "mixed" bike race and any kind of bike may be entered. In the "mixed" race no bicycles will be handicapped at the starting line. Instead each type of bike will be judged on its speed as it places and comes across the finish line. The fellows "mixed" race will be two and one half miles long.

Girls will also have a "mixed" race but they must only race 300 yards. In all of the races, girls will only race against girls and fellows against fellows.

These races will start on the stadium track. The races will traverse around campus and return to the finish line located on the road directly behind the stadium.

Students who are concerned about having to wear themselves out climbing Y mountain and then racing, should check with the intramural department about this solution.

WOODY CLAYTON is co-chairman and Doug Barker is in charge of organizing the different bike races. Questions about the bike race should be referred to these two students.

This year the faculty center for the first time. Last year preference was extended to international students here to enter this race. Their participation is encouraged every year.

Miss USA of 1968 will be on hand to present the medals to the Bike Race winners.

BYU Hosts Carbon JC Nine Today

BYU's diamond men, who jumped onto the win trail in a big way with lopsided victories over Snowbird Saturday, host Carbon College today in a doubleheader on Cougar field at 1 p.m.

THE COUGARS, who suffered through a disastrous 0-9 pre-season tour of southern California, unleashed a powerful offensive blow against the Badgers to gain two to win.

Gary Ernest, termed by Coach Glen Tuckett as the "outstanding" ballplayer of the southern California junket, quit the squad late last weekend, to weaken the outfield of the Cat.

CARBON IS the defending ICAC champion and will probably give the Cougars a tougher test than the Badgers were able to present.

The Pumas open the season for keeps this weekend when they face Utah's defending Skyline champion Redskins in the league lid lifter. The Utes were 3-1 last year, primarily from Arizona and southern California and easily handled Weber College in a tuneup game Monday.

Y Gridders Begin Week Of Intensive Scrimmag

With just one week elapsed of the 20 day spring training program, BYU football Coach Tally Stevens shows signs of optimism as his squad begins a week of intensive scrimmag.

NEIL CLAY, a promising sophomore fullback from Wichita, suffered a knee injury and will miss the remainder of the spring working out, but return in the fall to join the Cougars.

Poss and end defense were two of the most dissatisfying areas of the Pumas play last fall and Stevens plans to concentrate on improving them during the spring conditioning period.

The Cougar coaching staff concentrated on fundamentals in the opening five days and will now move into scrimmage sessions in an effort to ready for the Alumni game that will climax the spring workouts on April 27 in Cougar Stadium.

FOUR FRESHMAN ends are being counted on by Stevens to bolster the flanks that badly during the 1959 campaign. The four fresh are Gene Fred Curr, Glen Richardson, Jim Johnson and

The weakest spot on the present squad is at tackle where Cougars are "really hurting", according to Stevens. "We have got much depth behind" P. Allen at right half; and T. Stidham at full.

Three junior college transfers are expected to aid the Y's cause next fall. Richard Bear, a tail from Ricks, Ralph Yarrow from Blackfoot, Monica C. Collier and Dick Lomax, a 175 pound center who may be moved to tackle to plug up the there.
